REPORT ON GIMME 5 GAME

The game was played by Grade 10 learners at Theodor Herzl High School. It was interesting to see how quickly a boisterous group of teenagers settled to play the game. They found it to be a novel concept, found the instructions fairly easy, and were very soon all busy with the game. Their feedback after the game was positive – they all agreed they would like to play the game again. They really like the concept of the dudes – it seemed they liked the idea that positive and negative values could be personified in the dudes. It was clear that the ‘good dudes’ promoted progress and the ‘bad dudes’ impeded progress – such a simple concept in the game illustrated how choices in life influence one’s success and happiness. They commented that they found the questions a little easy, however, the game is designed for younger players and we now intend playing with a younger group of learners. Despite them finding the questions easy, it was interesting to note that they did not get all the answers correct!
